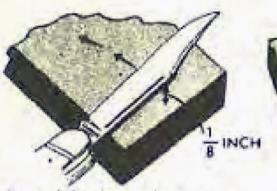
If a knife is properly cared for it will give longer and more satisfactory service. Instruct your customers in the correct care of their knives. They'll appreciate this added service.

Sharpening

This is the only correct method—read it carefully.



1 Oil the stone so top is fairly moist.

2 Lay blade edge on stone. Raise back of blade about 1/8" above stone.

3 Sharpen against the edge (as if cutting into the stone)...drawing the blade toward you off the stone at the same time.

4 On alternate strokes sharpen other side of edge by reversing this operation.

Clean the stone after use.

Oiling

The joints of a knife need oil just like a machine. Clean out the dirt, then put a drop of light oil at each joint. Work the oil in by moving the blade back and forth.

Wiping

To prevent stain or rust, wipe knives clean after contact with moisture or perspiration. Polish the brass and nickel silver with a little silver polish.
